JOURNAL OF CONTACT (UNITED KINGDOM)

When a relatively new organisation is expanding, the public, naturally and quite rightly, queries its motives. Our aims have been clearly stated. At the same time we feel that certain aspects cannot be too strongly emphasised.

It is often suggested, when questions of philosophy and ideals arise, that a project smacks of unreality or even a leaning towards "Cultism." The activities in Contact are based purely on scientific findings and in fields of research which are already operating in our Universities.

"Awareness" relates to Truth and the discovery of facts - Wisdom is defined as being the "Love of Truth." Widening knowledge is in direct opposition to flights of fancy and wishful or woolly thinking. We depend on all our members to uphold the principle of Truth.

In our physical activities there must be reliability and in our intellectual pursuits there must be clarity of vision.

CONTACT (U.K.)

CONTACT IS A WORLDWIDE, NON-PROFIT MAKING EDUCATIONAL MOVEMENT DEVOTED TO UFO RESEARCH AND THE PROMOTION OF GREATER AWARENESS WORKING TOWARDS UNIVERSAL FRIENDSHIP AND TRUTH.

REFLECTIONS

Since the last issue of Awareness our movement has again made tremendous strides forward. We have changed our name from International Sky Scouts Association (UK) to CONTACT. This was a significant step. Not only have former member countries joined us, in changing their name, but several new countries have been added. We are now a completely independent International organisation with headquarters in the United Kingdom.

Membership of contact in the U.K. has already risen to 700 and we are awaiting our first 1,000. Every member in Contact and those whom we hope will join us can feel part of a world-wide network of people with similar aims and aspirations..... As a world family we can help build a renewed world through renewed thinking involving scientific study, concentration and will.

As the parent country, we shall naturally endeavour to set a responsible example to the world.

It may be of interest to note that when we changed our name to Contact, the International Academy of Astronautics - based in Belgrade - formed an organisation which they called CETI, named after the star which these scientists believe may have life-bearing planets encircling it. CETI stands for Communications with Extra Terrestrial Intelligence. Their Chairman is Professor Rudolf Pesek who also heads the astronautics commission at the Czech Academy of Sciences.

Scientists from all over the world who believe in extra-terrestrial life - but who because of public trust in their work were so far unable to express their views, can now join a body where, in a united effort, by means of purely scientific methods, the certainties of life on other planets and their possible communication with us, can be examined.

The words CONTACT and COMMUNICATION are very much in the air. We in Contact not only endeavour to make contact with other planets doing much research in this field but also with our higher selves, (the integrated, observing, essential part of our personalities), and all those who share our interests.

By being at all times our true selves and, by adopting well-balanced, mature and clear sighted views, we endeavour to discover new territories, thereby reaching towards a greater knowledge of the universe and our own selves. When in our natural state, we are in complete harmony with it - in other words, "in our element."

The study of UFOs and the allied subjects will stir us and bring many rewards and surprises, lifting us up to higher levels of consciousness.

By being forward-looking and realistic and by gaining so much information and material that we in the end, become the authorities, we will find no need to write letters to the Air Ministry pointing out that they are allegedly withholding vital information from the public. If they do not want to give it to us, they must have their reasons.

By inviting the space people in as our guests and advisers, we in Contact can feel that we have built a bridge for them to come across. Together with a learned body of responsible scientists we could then be of inestimable benefit and help to our fellow men.

In the meantime we continue to build up our membership and gather together those who are drawn to our aims and objectives. One young member in Wiltshire enrolled 17 new members in one week adding to a fine group started in the Trowbridge area. If every member looks around, he or she will find many others who would like to join Contact. This will help us to become one of the finest movements mankind has ever witnessed. So many of the younger generation, dissatisfied with the orthodox, are looking for a greater reality, and by joining up with this movement they will not only find others with equally enthused minds, but through group effort and exchange of information find new friends.

In our next issue we will print a full list of all the groups situated throughout the United Kingdom. I shall be pleased to hear from anyone wishing to form a new group.

We are now at the end of 1967 and a new year lies ahead of us. May I take this opportunity on behalf of the National Committee, and, last but not least, our International Chairman, the Hon. Brinsley Le Poer French, of wishing you a very purposeful and rewarding 1968.

National Chairman,

THE BIRTH OF CETI

By Michael Jeffries.

A probe by leading scientists to determine whether there civilisations beyond this world is to start on a big international scale.

It will be the first investigation of its kind, and will be carried out by the renowned International Academy of Astronautics, which was meeting at the Space Congress in Belgrade.

If scientists do locate an "intelligence" in space serious attempts are to be made to communicate with "them."

The search is to be called CETI - Communications with Extra Terrestrial Intelligence.

CETI was chosen because it is also a star that, scientists believe, may have life-bearing planets circling it.

Chairman of the Academy's organising committee is Prof. Rudolf Pesek, who heads the astronautics commission at the Czech Academy of Sciences. His group are about to urge scientists all over the world to answer these preliminary problems:-

(1) The development of civilisations and the possibility that other intelligences have already discovered the H-Bomb or other weapons and annihilate themselves.

(2) Solving possible messages from outer space. "With the help of the science of mathematical linguistics we shall solve a message if we receive it," said the professor. A simple example might be receiving a number of signals which could all be divided by three, like 9, 21, 36.

(3) The impact on mankind if another intelligence were found. Said the professor, who believes there is intelligent life in space: "I think this will be a revolution, because this new civilisation will probably be on a higher plane than we are."

(4) Biological questions: If there are other beings in space, how do they live? Do they breathe air? And what do they look like? "If there is life on Mars of any kind then there will be a very high probability there will be intelligent life somewhere else. For we will know for the first time that life is not confined to the earth," he said. (Credit: London Evening News.)

CONTACT PEOPLE

By Phyllis Marie Wadsworth, author of Overmind.

Some seek, through taking drugs, to find the "within of things" described by Pierre Teilhard de Chardin. But their method is a back-door one, doomed to a brief period only. Others like the Beatles, are seeking an identical expansion of consciousness through the use of a Westernised technique of Eastern meditation. But by far the larger group, less coherent, less publicised, are those I call the Contact People.

Before we go on to consideration of this larger group, let us consider what the word Contact means. It has ramifications as complex and far reaching as any large scientific discovery of atomic or planetary significance.

We are familiar in daily living with telephone, radio, television and satellite communication or contact. They work on the technical mechanical level. On the psychological level we find the relationships between individuals in the family, among friends, and work people. Beyond this level again are the contacts made between nations and thence again, to planetary contact. At every living moment of the day we make contacts through a complex web of energies operating on different levels. The truth of the poet John Donne's words "No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main," is more dynamically, obviously accurate today than it appeared when first the words were written.

Taking the concept of "contact" a note higher in the octave of human living, we come to the specialised contact of mind to mind. This may be in the form of telepathy, or a form of empathy between two persons closely linked. Or its effects may be seen when two inventors proclaim the same discovery half a world apart. Something mysterious has happened in the invisible pool of etheric thought waves and an identical "new" discovery has been made.

As scientists begin to recognise, the brain itself is a delicate mechanical instrument, more complex than the most up-to-date computer. There are areas in the brain cell-and-nerve structure that are virtually dormant; their function unknown. It is not too fantastic to see the brain as a glorified sensitive radionic instrument par excellence, capable of both receiving and broadcasting thoughts and pictures.

When the pineal gland is sufficiently activated, the head can be seen to be ringed in light and colour. It is visible to the clairvoyant or to one using the Kilner Screen. The haloes depicted in the paintings of Saints were not a piece of whimsy on the part of the painter. He painted what he saw, the auric emanations from persons with highly developed sensitivity in a certain portion of the brain.

Through the brain, energies are generated, transformed or developed. When the organs are alerted or awakened we begin to find the "within" of ourselves and the "within" of other things. We sense that this is a door through which delicate perceptive antennae may be projected into a new state of consciousness; the expanded consciousness necessary to meet the demands of the new age.

Through this particular kind of energised sensitivity operating through the mechanism of the brain, higher contact with intelligences from other planets, from other levels of life may be made. This is the sensitivity which makes such contact not only possible but fact.

By raising the vibratory level of thought new and enlarged vistas open.

The word "contact" then presents itself with as many facets as a cut diamond. The individual may, at will, use all or any one of the facets presented to him. Through his own unique ability he may choose one or all; a few or many.

His work may take shape and form on any one, or on several levels. So long as he has the ability to picture, in clear and accurate focus, the avenues are open to him.

The Contact people - i.e. those who discover for themselves, and use, this facility of expanded consciousness, are those who will bring forth into the fabric of world consciousness, vastly changed concepts of what life is, what it all means.

We stand on the threshold of exciting possibilities; tremendous demands are being made on each and every one. And in exact ratio to the individual response will come the new dispensation; the ability to make speedy accurate contact with those near and dear to us; to those with whom we work; between nation and nation, planet and planet. For this is the age of Communication of Contact and the importance of the "Contact People" in every income bracket, in every group, is great.

BIRMINGHAM. Meeting place "Dr. Johnson House", Colmore Circus.
By Peter Coleman.

Friday 17th Nov. was our first meeting at our new venue. There was a large turn-out with several new members signing up. Our new membership secretary, William Herschell, gave a very interesting talk on the movement (Contact) and its deeper aspects. The meeting was enthusiastically treated and it is hoped that our local group will develop into a real force for Contact U.K.

We shall be holding fortnightly meetings at the Friends Meeting House, Colmore Circus, Birmingham 4, on Dec. 1st, 15th, 29th. Jan. 12th, 26th, Feb 9th, 23rd, Mar. 8th, 22nd, April 5th, 19th. For more information write to Peter Coleman, 7 Sleaford Road, Hall Green, Birmingham, 23

Our group have now started their own newsletter called Theta which will be distributed to members in the Midlands. It will contain local news (details of meetings, skywatches and other activities), and also short articles on some of the aspects of Contact (UK).

A MATTER OF EVOLUTION

By Neil Beverley

It would surely be very egocentric for man to proclaim that throughout the infinite universe, our planet is the only one supporting intelligent life, or that because we cannot yet traverse space no-one else in another planetary system can either, or that no other civilisation could be any older or technologically further advanced than we are at present. Until recent years, however, man has proudly held these views, but then man IS a very egocentric individual. This has been demonstrated by the opposition to the works of Copernicus and Galileo in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries, to mention but two.

Astronomers have discovered many red stars which are much older than our own yellow sun, and it is a logical assumption that any encircling planets of these red stars, or suns, would be much older as well. It is quite possible of course, that a planet younger than Earth could support much more intelligent, and spiritually advanced life than our planet does; Intelligence is not necessarily proportional to age.

If, for example, a planet developed with very few, if perhaps no wars at all, it is quite possible that the inhabitants could have evolved in complete harmony with their environment and each other, and have developed much simpler ways of crossing space.

Rather than using brute force of rocket motors, naturally occurring forces might be utilised to simply float immense craft across inter-stellar distances at many times the speed of light. Many phychical phenomena, such as levitation, materialisation and apports are, after all, not products of the imagination, but are definite scientific facts; they are just a small part of a natural science we do not yet understand.

And the reason why we don't understand them? Plain ignorance and an almost inherent fear of what we broadly term "the supernatural."

It may be argued that wars hasten the appearance of inventions and general scientific advancement, but it is only too true that a nation constantly beset with war and poverty does not have a chance to direct thought along other lines than methods of dealing death and destruction. We become narrow-minded and thoughts of harmony disappear completely. Even after the war is over, we are occupied with creating bigger and better weapons in anticipation of the next.

Somewhere in the distant past, something went wrong with our spiritual evolution. Probably it was the so-called "fall of man," but call it what you like, it is up to us to correct that fault, and to invite and accept any available help; wherever it may come from.

Caxton Hall Meeting August 26th, 1967.

Our first London lecture meeting, held at Caxton Hall, proved to be a great success. The main speaker was Arthur Shuttlewood, local Wiltshire journalist and author of The Warminster Mystery. The meeting was opened by our National Chairman, Johan Quanjer, who gave a short talk on what he thought was the role of the movement - to welcome the space people to our planet and to learn from them something of the truth of the universe, and of how to live sane, well-balanced lives. This was followed by a very well-produced film on a skywatch at Warminster. Unfortunately the Thing did not make an appearance for the cameras, but we saw something of how a skywatch is organised, and of the equipment used. After this Arthur Shuttlewood gave a lengthy and fascinating talk on the UFO (or, as he preferred to say, space ship) activity around Warminster, and what he thought its implications were.

The meeting was highly successful; the hall was packed to capacity and we all had a most interesting and thought-provoking evening.

As man clumsily treads the milestones of the future, what chance has he to fulfil his conquest? So it seems that as one war is finalised another one just as frightful as the last is beginning. Millions of people are left to starve in various parts of the world, one such country is India, while the rest of the world is living it up. People squander all their money on themselves and fill their stomachs full with food, not realising, or caring, for that matter, that somewhere there are Human beings dying through lack of food. People everywhere are dying from diseases, some of which are necessary. 100,000 people die every year in the UK from Cancer alone.

How wrong we are to believe that we are living in a good and proper world, thinking that we are an advanced race of beings. Advanced we may be inasmuch as our technology of science is concerned, but alas, we are still mentally unstable. Many people still believe wars are the best solution to settle our differences, but surely wars do nothing to settle our problems and only give us more trouble and confusion.

Have we got a chance to attain our philosophical attitude in the universe, to throw away our egoistical morals, and live in unity and harmony with one another? Where we can then mould a new world to the thoughts of a more spiritually advanced society. I think we have got a good chance, if only we could all realise the fact, and change our present way of thinking and living. For this reason I believe is why Space Craft from worlds afar are coming to the planet Earth in our hour of need, why they have been seen so frequently over the past 20 years or so, and why they will continue to be seen until they have completed their difficult task.

These people have been visiting our planet for millennia, that we know. There are records of their visits in the Bible and many other ancient scriptures. But in the last two and a half decades they have greatly accelerated their expeditions to the planet.

One of the reasons for this could be because we now have the capability and probability of blowing ourselves to dust. It is known that after some atomic explosions there is sometimes a wave of UFO sightings in the surrounding area, also UFO's have been sighted after the events of earth-quakes and hurricanes. Yes, it seems that extra-terrestrial beings are keeping a very observant eye on us.

I feel sure that when we decide to give up our futile wars and riots and antagonistic behaviour towards one another we will then be able to open up new channels of "Awareness," and project our minds to the consciousness of our more spiritually advanced Space Friends. At this stage of thinking if we ever reach it, Man of Earth will then then be ready to make contact with the people of other world. This will be possible not just for a selected few but for everyone who wishes it.

Before we step into the depths and realms of the Universe we must first penetrate the depths of our own minds and "tune in" so to speak to ourselves, correcting our mistakes as we proceed until we have no more mistakes to correct.

CONTACT (U.K.) is a group dedicated to preparing the way for the future, forging the link between the Space People and ourselves, and opening the doors to a better understanding of mankind and his place in the Universe.

"HORATIO"

By Anne Patterson.

It is interesting, and often disturbing, to observe the activities of the inhabitants of this planet as if from Outer Space.

Discarding the physical symptoms of a neurotic age, and picking up the quality of the mental vibrations, one's receiving apparatus registers an extremely complex and conflicting range of trends.

One imagines the sensitively tuned set to emit a series of explosions, crackles and discordant tones, backed by a faint but constant note of melodic balance.

As the imagination is stimulated by its own creations, one envisages this telepathic receiving apparatus as being part of the very advanced mind of a far more highly evolved being than most of our earthly acquaintances.

Examining the chaos, perhaps he discerns many centres of enlightenment and wisdom shining steadily through a labyrinth of advancing scientific knowledge and greed, and the inevitable resulting warfare.

Can we wonder if our advanced brother is wary, even of extending a helping hand to these mixed-up savages?

Suspicion and resistance would be, in this case, as destructive as are these same attitudes in any human relationship where goodwill is one-sided.

"Tuning in" to the mental turmoil common to all cities, he may observe a spiritual suffocation corresponding to the atmospheric pollution. Alacrity of thought however, prevails, thought as varied in its quality as are the commodities manufactured in the smoky factories.

If cynicism could be entertained by a fully integrated being, it would be hardly surprising to hear that the animal kingdom was considered to be far in advance of the human race where dignity and a balanced way of life are concerned.

Moving away from the cities, even the human beings working close to the soil, or on the sea, seem to share this wisdom and gentle strength. Such a discovery must be heartening to our distant observer, for when the time is ripe for contact to be established surely this must take place; initially, in an unutilized agricultural area.

He must be encouraged too, by the knowledge that in all centres of learning increasing numbers of scientists are accepting as facts certain aspects of existence, which, until recent years, would have been labelled "psychical phenomena," and therefore considered unworthy of the attention of an intellectual.

Dedicated research however, has forced a breakthrough of such phenomena as, for example, telepathy, into the field of science, and such disparagingly-named subjects as "fringe psychology" are receiving recognition in academic circles. Thinking people have even boldly voiced the opinion that the narrow cult of "spiritualism" and all the dark mysteries of the occult, which, to many, the word conjures up, may have wide and worthy possibilities.

In the view of our observing friend, this, coupled with the growing recognition of mediumistic faculties latent in each individual, may be the greatest step so far towards inter-planetary communications.

The half-comic, half-unhealthy image of the seance-room, dimly lit and festooned with ectoplasm, fades as the dark corners are illuminated by knowledge.

There still remain those who perform an admirable service in conveying consoling messages to the bereaved, and there are many small gatherings of elderly ladies who make a weekly appointment with a medium in order to pass the time of day with a deceased relative. Too many, alas, are content to terminate their progress and their curiosity on this bottom rung of the ladder of spiritual learning.

He - our space brother - must long to urge them on to further endeavours. Each one, through a study of meditation, could receive direct and useful communications from the highest sources, without fear of distortion, either by the medium's mind, or by their own selfish motives, which can so easily allow the entry of evil or negative influences.

It appears that so-called "progress" has blunted the perception, intuition and spontaneity common to most primitive tribes and to animals, and so we are forced partly to blame the "meddling intellect "

Dare we hope that an increasing number of lively minds, aware of their own potentialities, will become receptive to the telepathic help offered by distant but highly illuminated centres of thought? The most intelligent of these minds will have the humility to recognise the defects in our civilisation, and accept the counsel of peace-makers.

NORTHERN CONVENTION - October 15th, 1967.

Our first Northern Convention of Contact (UK) in Ilkley, Yorks, held in the Winter Gardens was a great success. We received much valuable and serious news coverage in the Yorkshire Post and Evening Post. Our thanks go to Vincent O'Connell who so ably organised this meeting, putting much thought and effort into making it very worthwhile. The audience, who had packed the hall, fully participated in the meeting which lasted for three hours.

The main speakers for the evening included Johan Quanjer, Colin Watson, committee member for the North, William Herschell, our new membership secretary. After the interval, Mollie Thompson, who produced the record From Worlds Afar, joined the platform. The meeting was chaired by Vincent O'Connell.

REPORTS THAT "SKY OBJECTS WERE PLANES REFUELLING" DISCOUNTED.

We are all very much indebted to John Cullum, of the Cambridgeshire "Contact" group, who obtained an official denial from the American Air Force base, Ruislip, that some of the recent sightings of "flying crosses" were attributed to the refuelling of airplanes. John Cullum received the official denial from Major Westgrove, who passed this on to the Sunday Express.

The Sunday Express of October 29th, after making their own inquiries, published the following article on its front page under the headline "Those Things In The Sky Were Not Planes Refuelling - Official."

To quote from this leading article, "The Ministry of Defence admitted yesterday, that the emphatic and official explanation given on Friday - that objects seen in the sky were United States Air Force planes refuelling in mid-air - no longer stands up. There were no refuelling operations at the time of the sightings. And all the sightings of "Fiery Crosses" in the sky (most by patrolling policemen) were between midnight and dawn.

"Confronted with that evidence, the Ministry of Defence said: 'The refuelling theory obviously can't account for the early morning sightings now. It looks as if there is still no rational explanation for the objects the policemen report having seen'."

We are also very much indebted to our member Doug Chaundy, from Burnham-on-Sea, Somerset, who supplied us with the following valuable information.

In a statement made by Mr. Edward Bear, press officer for the USAF base at Ruislip, Middx, "The mid-air refuelling exercises took place between 27,000 and 28,000 ft. (no object seen that high) - The aircraft have a powerful searchlight and a string of white lights underneath the fuselage and along the wings (no reports of one light being brighter than the other) the fighters being refuelled had red flashing lights for the use of navigation. (Only white lights mentioned in reported crosses). The most important part of the statement was that "NO REFUELLING EXERCISES TOOK PLACE IN THE WEST COUNTRY ANY DAY EXCEPT ON THURSDAY THE 26TH OCTOBER."

QUESTIONS IN HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT

This cannot explain the sightings made in the West Country on Tuesday by the two police constables in Devon, or on Wednesday in the same locality by the same two persons or, for that fact, any sightings made on any day except Thursday.

The weather forecast for Tuesday the 26th October: Very cloudy. The same applied also to Thursday.

Another factor is that the two Constables alighted from their Z-Car to get a better view of the object they were chasing. While they were outside the car they saw that the object was still moving at a very fair rate of speed. They definitely state that the object was seen outside the car to be only tree-top height. THIS MUST RULE OUT BOTH REFUELLING AIRCRAFT AND...VENUS.

There is one thing that people seem to have overlooked when considering the Devon police sightings. The UFO was seen by the two police constables on Tuesday morning, again on Wednesday morning, and again on Thursday morning. On Thursday night, when the USAF refuelling aircraft were in the Western skies the object was NOT seen by the two officers.

Mr Rees, Under-Secretary for Defence (RAF), was asked about plans to deal with a recurrence of an unidentified flying object over the Okchampton area of Devon. He replied that a number were reported as having been seen over North Devon.

Some proved to be aircraft and others were lights. Most of the lights were the planet Venus. "The source of a few lights has not been positively identified, but I can say that none was an alien object." There were standing instructions for Air Force stations to report unusual objects in the sky. He did not consider additional action necessary.

Mr P. Mills (C.Torrington) pointed out that "responsible statements" had been made by two police officers and by engineers that low-flying objects were moving for over an hour in one area.

Mr Rees said investigations in recent years gave no reason to believe that there are "unidentified flying objects in the sense in which it has been implied."

The 'Daily Telegraph' science correspondent commented on the Minister's statement as unlikely to satisfy the many people who have seen these strange phenomena "Unidentified but undeniable is still the only correct attitude," he said.

An investigation into phenomena in America is being carried out at the University of Denver, with a £107,000 allocation from the USAF.

It is time the RAF set up a similar investigating commission of British scientists, the correspondent added.

A LETTER FROM OUR INTERNATIONAL CHAIRMAN.

Hon. Brinsley Le Poer Trench.

(Published in the Daily Telegraph 16th November, 1967)

Sir,

It has been officially announced that the Russians are to set up a commission under General A. Stolyarov, of the Soviet Air Force, to investigate flying saucers.

We already know that 18 months ago the American authorities allocated £107,000 for a panel of scientists headed by Dr E. Condon to be convened at the University of Colorado for a similar purpose.

I concur wholeheartedly with your Science Correspondent's recent suggestion in your columns (Nov 9) that the RAF should appoint a panel of scientists in this country to investigate the subject. This is something that should have been done long ago.

Yours faithfully,

Brinsley Le Poer Trench
International Chairman, Contact.

UFOs AND RUSSIA.

By Ken Rogers

UFOs are to be investigated by the USSR. A commission, consisting of a panel of 18 scientists has been set up. Headed by retired Air Force General Anatoli Stolyarov, the commission's headquarters are in the Aviation and Cosmonautics Museum, Moscow.

This is an unprecedented reversal of Soviet policy. In 1961 after sightings were reported over the USSR, Pravda published denials that UFOs had been seen. Statements of their non-existence were supported by a Soviet Academician, who said that the objects sighted were results of self-deception and international falsification of facts.

But, in April this year, Feodore Zigel announced that Soviet radar had been detecting UFOs for 20 years or so. "There is no satisfactory explanation," said Zigel. "Nonsense or invention were the explanations for many sightings, but not all." Zigel also said that the spaceship theory was supported by the speed of the objects sighted and also by the fact that none had landed.

In addition, officials in Moscow have now confirmed that UFOs have been seen by many Soviet people. Moscow television announced that the Soviet Air Force is currently reviewing the cases, and although only a few are under investigation at present, "thousands will be reviewed in the future."

The head of the new commission is to have a large full-time staff, and expects that many more UFO sightings, within the Soviet Union, will be reported - if only because of their existence.

Soon after the news of the forming of the commission, it was announced that tourists at the Black Sea resort of Sochi witnessed a sickle-shaped object in the sky on the night of October 3rd, 1967. The "flying sickle" was said to have been followed by "an unearthly wave of light." At the same moment a scientific observatory in the Caucasian Mountains west of Sochi also reported "a strange and dazzling light." Five other well authenticated sightings have also been reported in recent months.

General Stolyarov commenting on the Caucasian observatory sightings said that they coincided with reports from England, France, and other countries. "We can find no explanation for this latest object."

Eighteen months ago the American Air Force gave a grant of £107,000 to a team of scientists under Prof E. Condon, at the University of Colorado for a similar investigation.

FLYING SAUCER LIBRARY FOR CONGRESS:

Miss Lynn E. Catoe of the Library of Congress, Washington D.C. paid a visit to the United Kingdom. She is building up a library of all the books ever published on UFOs, or in any possible way related. Although this work is in support of the Condon Committee's project, it is really independent of it and financed by the Air Force. So far she has collected 800 titles and has read every one of them.

We wish Miss Catoe much success in her unique work of building up such a vast and comprehensive library.

REPORT ON THE OCTOBER 'FLAP'

England has just experienced what may turn out to be one of the biggest "Saucer Flaps" in the history of UFO research. During October reports have come in from all over the country of "Flying Crosses" "Cigars" "Saucers" and a variety of coloured lights etc. And it will take many weeks to investigate and examine all the evidence that has been received by our research office. To give a detailed account of every sighting would fill several issues of "Awareness" but we will try to present an account of the number of sightings and the series of events that took place.

The first indication that something unusual was happening came from Okehampton on the 11th October. Police and farmworkers reported seeing an object hovering within the Earth's atmosphere over Okehampton. The object was visible on any clear day, always in the same position and was described as being a large silver disc, brighter on one side than on the other and the underside regularly changed colour from a shiny metal to a glaring red. The R.A.F. were called in and on the 19th October they sent up a plane and the navigator took sextant readings. Their verdict? It was a plane and the navigator took sextant readings. Their verdict? It was the Planet Venus. However, the Torbay Astronomical Society failed to identify it and a meteorological officer and many others were baffled as the object did not orbit but remained stationary between 9.30 am and 4.30 pm. and was not visible after dark. Strange behaviour if this was the planet Venus!

Meanwhile reports were coming in from Preston, Shepherds Bush, and Middlesex. On October 14th the first "Flying Cross" was seen by Mrs Dorothy Wright of Northampton. She was looking from her back door when she saw what first appeared to be a star coming towards her. Said Mrs Wright "It was gold in colour and was just like a church cross. I have never seen anything so beautiful in my life." She could see a shadow around the cross like the shadow of a human being.

On the 22nd. came a report from Leyton of a strange object seen by a group of boys playing football. The object which was hovering at tree top level was the size of a small lorry. It was round, had windows, a small turquoise panel in its side and telescopic legs and was aluminium in colour. The object shot off at a terrific speed. An unusual story borne out by witnesses.

On the 23rd. October at 3.25 am. Mr. C. Asquith saw a brilliant white light the size of a football hovering near his home in Knottingly, Yorks. At 3.58 am. a few miles away in Cutshike the same object was seen by Mr. Copley. At 5.30 pm.

at Odley, Leicester, Mrs. Davis and her daughter saw an opaque silver object moving at great speed. At 7 pm. a ball of light like a magnesium flame hovered 150 ft. above a field in Devon and then shot away at an estimated speed of 2,000 mph. The object was seen by Joe Hobbs of Pomeroy near Tiverton as he was carrying out night survey work for the Army. The same evening another object was seen by Mrs. Tolley along the Bicester to Oxford Road.

The first sighting of the 24th. came at 2.am. from Mrs. Harridence at Oxford. Then at 4.10 am. the Flying Cross was seen by P.C.'s Roger Willey and Clifford Waycott who were driving their patrol car along the A.3072 between Holsworthy and Okehampton. P.C. Waycott first noticed a bright white light ahead of them. "It was star spangled just like looking through wet glass. Before I spoke P.C. Willey said that the light was very bright and put his foot down. We reached 90 m.p.h. but the light accelerated away from us. Then it seemed to drop. We gave chase again then it soared higher into the sky." The patrol car crew saw a second light join the first. The light was also seen by officers at Okehampton and by Christopher Garner of Marshwood Farm who was awakened by the police officers whilst sleeping in the seat of a Land Rover. Later that day at 3 pm. a rectors wife, Mrs. Dommett, and three other witnesses saw what they thought to be the same object heading out to sea over the Norfolk coast. Objects were also seen that afternoon over Rushton and Doddington. School children at Alford reported seeing a round silver object in the sky. There were four spikes protruding from it and it emitted small puffs of smoke. At 8.45 pm. another star-like object was seen by C. Robinson and R. Carben of Malvern. Later that evening Wing Commander Cox saw a series of bright lights in the sky at Godshill near Fordingbridge in Hampshire which finished up in a cross formation. He said: "There were seven lights at first and then three went out leaving the remaining four in the form of a cross." The objects were in view for about ten minutes before disappearing behind a ridge.

The next morning, 25th October, U.F.O's were seen by a total of eleven policemen. The flying cross was seen by a police motorcyclist at Halland at 4.45 am. A few moments later a report came from P.C's in a patrol car travelling along a country road nearby. At the same time came a report from another patrol car twenty miles away at Bolney. At 7.50 am. two very dark coloured objects were seen from a Z-car just leaving the Chipping Norton road. Reports also came from patrol cars at Newhaven and Haywards. At 6.40 am. Mr. Peter Baker from Hastings saw a stationary star like object shaped like a cross, and at 7am. Mr. Fred Davis, security guard on a small arms ammunition depot at Enfield Middlesex, saw a dazzling object moving at speed across the sky. Mr. Davis is a former R.S.M. and apparently not given to flights of fancy or imagination! At 9.30 that evening a bright stationary object was observed by pupils of Wellingborough School, and seven boys from Wells Cathedral School watched several lights in the sky which flew in a V formation. An object was also seen by Mr. Warden and P.C. Richards over Bedford. The police Chief Superintendent issued a statement saying that the object was an aircraft. Then the R.A.F. issued a statement saying that there were no aircraft in the area. The flying cross was again seen by a police patrol car at Okehampton and also at Bozeat and by Mr. Stanley Mills at Belfast.

At last someone decided to do something about the situation and Tory M.P. Mr. Peter Mills tabled a question in the House of Commons. He demanded a full statement from Mr. Denis Healey the Minister of Defence as to his plans to deal with a possible recurrence of this flying object. "I think the Minister ought to clear up this business as to whether or not we are looking at our own equipment or machines from another country or indeed another planet."

Meanwhile the sightings continued. On 26th October at 2.5am. a bright light swooped out of the sky in front of a police patrol car near Okehampton, Devon. In the car were P.C's Drouge and Willey (who witnessed a sighting on the 24th). The light, which was moving at a tremendous speed dived behind some high ground then climbed steeply before it disappeared. Reporter Ted Hynds who was also in the car said: "It was just like a classic flying saucer shape". At 6.20am. an object was seen at Trowbridge Wiltshire at 7.15 am. at Enfield, Middlesex.

Mrs. Hyett and her daughter watched two bright objects over Gloucester at dawn. She said "They looked like the stars portrayed in Nativity scenes". At 7.30 am. several people reported seeing the Flying Cross over Daventry. At 11 am. Mr. Peter Butterfield reported seeing a star-like object circle the moon from Whetstone. Caroline Fisher and her mother saw four bright orange objects flying in formation near Guildford.

At Wellenborough, Mr. Spademan saw and photographed a bright object. Other reports came from Skipton, Tilehurst, Middleton Cheney, Torrington, Brixton, Taunton, Minehead, Yeovil, Hayling Island, Finedon in Northamptonshire, Hastings, Swanley, Swansea, Brixham, St. Neots, and Colchester. Mr. Leslie Pearce, a bus driver stopped his vehicle to watch a bright green cigar shaped object hover over Brighton. The same day a spokesman from the Royal Observatory said "There is obviously some good evidence now that there is something flying around up there". This was the understatement of the year.

The next day, 27th October, reports were still coming in. At 4 am. at Eacup, P.C. Earnshaw noticed severe interference on the station's short wave radio. He looked outside and saw a huge cigar shaped object hovering 250 ft. above the station. The ship was of a light metallic colour and a low whirring noise could be heard coming from it. The sighting was witnessed by two other officers. At 4.15 am. a bright cross shaped object was sighted by P.C.s Grayson and Thornton at Stalybridge. The same object was seen 15 minutes later by P.C. Jones at Mottram-in-Longdendale and by P.C. Kilkenny at Stalybridge. Two white objects were seen at Rotherhithe at 5 pm. by Mrs. West. A number of people in the Glossop area reported seeing a bright cross moving over the town. At Colchester a bus conductor spotted a saucer shaped object with stars of light coming from it which he saw following an aeroplane. Schoolboy Timothy Robinson saw two R.A.F. Lightning jets chasing a mushroom shaped object at Winchester. P.C. Whitehead and six friends saw a bright orange light hovering 150 ft. over Chelsea. Other reports came from Aylesbury, Bradford, Didsbury, Eastwood and Kelworth.

By this time the official explanation that these objects were in fact the planet Venus was wearing a bit thin. The Ministry of Defence announced that the sightings were the result of aircraft refuelling exercises being carried out by the American Air Force from South Ruislip. This explanation though quite acceptable to most people did not seem quite so rational to others. One of those people was our Cambridge Organiser John Cullum who contacted Major Westbrook, Commander of Ruislip camp. Major Westbrook denied statements that were attributed to him and explained that there were refuelling exercises on the 26th between 5.30 pm. and 9.30 pm. which could hardly explain the numerous sightings that occurred throughout the month.

And still the sightings came in. At 3.20 am. on the 28th Oct. at Sandown an object was seen by Mr. Feaver. 7am. Mr. Auger of Westminster saw several white lights in the sky. Mr. Mehrdad Fhamidi saw a bright star-like object just before dawn over London. Contact member Trevor Reading spotted three unusual objects near UFO's are a world-wide phenomenon, and any analysis of people's attitudes to UFOs in any area appear to produce similarly consistent results. Some will believe in their existence, but will not have seen them and others will be certain of their existence having seen them. Such a diverse set of opinions warrants analysis and some reasons for their being such widely differing opinions are analysed here.

What is the most important of all? Our own mental attitude? What is the object of the research? To find out, by observing, recording, relating, hypothesising, rejecting and researching if UFOs exist. If not, what do people see, or think they see? (In other words can they be explained by what is often so badly termed "natural explanations"). If they indeed appear to be UFOs, it is necessary to find out all about them. Are they solid? How do they move? Where? From Where? Do they land? Do people, or or does something else occupy them? If so, What? Who Knows? And, if, what, and when, you do know anything, how is it possible to tell an unsuspecting, unheeding, rejectionist world?

It's easy really, but so often conjecture does come into it all. Particularly in the religious approach. There is so much anti-religious feeling in the world, that people are hardly likely to seriously consider reports reports and theories about something they don't believe in having a significance, they accept even less.

What then? Kill not one, not two, but all the birds, with one stone. We have moved into a harsh technologically-based society, the society of applied science with facts, tested and tried in vigorous conditions as the basis. To convince such a society, use the methods it uses itself to prove it wrong - or right. Let all observers - the world over - leave nothing to chance. Investigate UFO phenomena untiringly and unceasingly, but always record all the facts. Environmental conditions, sky, etc., known tracks of satellites etc.

To quote somebody, but not accurately: "From drudgery comes scholarship." An ageless truism all too often forgotten.

the moon, one of which was stationary. The other two sped past the stationary object, flashing as they did so, and slowing down, entered clouds from which they did not reappear. On 29th. Robert Burke of St. Leonards, near Hastings, saw and photographed a bright red light at his home. At 5.50 am. three P.C's reported an object seen over Lancing police station. Reports of an orange or gold coloured cigar shaped object came from Islington, Ealing and Muswell Hill. A silver cross with red tentacles was seen over Jersey. P.C. John Whitcombe and his family watched an intensely bright white oval shaped object hover over Portsmouth Harbour. It was observed for several minutes then it moved away in the direction of the Isle of Wight. Other reports came from Otley in Yorkshire and from Bradford.

Finally on that day there was a landing on the Sussex Downs. At 6.45 pm. Paul Quick, while pushing his motor-cycle which had broken down, through a thickly wooded private estate in West Sussex, saw what looked like a rugby ball on its side floating towards him. He said: "It was one and a half times the size of a double decker bus and it was quite silent. It was about 250 ft. up". It paused in front of him and then disappeared behind some trees. He ran the rest of the way home where he and the rest of his family watched as the strange object came down on the crest of the Downs about two miles from the house. Mrs. Quick said: "It looked like a yellow light much wider at one end and then trailing off at the other end. There were occasional flashes of light from it". Mr. and Mrs. Quick left the house and went to a nearby field to get a better view of it. The yellow light changed to a deep red glow and then the object slithered over the Downs and disappeared. They then called the police.

Monday 30th and a report from Sandown where a cigar shaped object swept across the sky from the East to the West and was seen by Mr. Reg Hyde. A Sussex farmer, Mr. Ivor Martin reported seeing a U.F.O near Lewes. A large white object with two tails shot downwards across the sky towards the South and disappeared. A bright cross-shaped object with a long vapour trail was seen flying over Binton heading towards Aylesbury. From a train between Basingstoke and Andover stations Miss M.C. Croucher

After all, the scientific research of the world is based upon such lines. Record everything - make all the necessary observations, always. The odd results emerge by themselves - often forming patterns relatable to other details, otherwise overlooked.

There is, of course, no harm in speculation, it's good for the soul, clears the air, and still follows one of the requirements of a technologically-based society. Science works with hypotheses - derived, note, from considerations arising from assembled facts.

So now we can get our priorities in order. 1. Facts. 2. Co-ordinate the assembled facts. 3. Check facts. 4. Analyse recorded facts in relation to established and accepted facts. 5. Conjecture - Careful! Too much conjecture, in the wrong vein will undo all the good created by presentation of assembled facts.

One more point - and one we must all watch. There is one case (and there must be thousands more) of a chap of school/university age, who has unwittingly been influenced by a well-known ufologist to such an extent that he feels the physics and other sciences he is studying are worthless. He is thinking of giving them up. This would not only be disastrous for a scientifically-based society, which relies upon young people taking up the call of science and technology, but also disastrous from the point of view of any person, similarly distracted, from making a living for themselves.

Finally, a word on that term 'natural explanation'. Man is a curious animal, and each one unique. One person's experience is very different from another's and it is only in similar circumstances that men collect similar experience. Man learns by experiences, collected in diverse ways. Outside such 'human experience' are those phenomena which are classified as 'unnatural', because they cannot be explained by experienced - 'natural' - and, therefore, analysed phenomena. There is nothing un natural in the whole universe. It's just that there's an awful lot that hasn't been experienced yet. Yet.....

PSYCHOLOGY AND SPIRITUALITY

by "Medicus"

To one who was brought in the science of medicine, and was also a student of psychology and psychiatry for many years, the idea of UFOs seemed at first to be in the realm of fantasy. That was the time when my mother in about 1947, had written to Adamski and had had a brief subsequent correspondence with him. She always firmly believed in the reality of flying saucers then, and did so up to her death. Now I have my former cautious scepticism shaken by the accumulation of much information on UFOs from all over the world. Their sightings seem now beyond the realms of chance, and a pattern is growing. Our thoughts are now reaching out to the probability of inhabited planets and visitors from them. Such thoughts and feelings, linking with the vastness of even our own small planet existence are surely of the utmost importance to us here and should be studied from both the psychological and spiritual points of view.

Nothing could be more salutary to our sense of scientific achievement and false pride, with all that it means in potential catastrophe as well as progress, than to find that we were pigmies in knowledge of all kinds. There is however, much more than this to be thought about. How we regard such visitors is surely of very great importance, and we must look at ourselves in the light of our possibly coming face to face with beings of far greater development than our own. Do we meet them as friends or invaders? It seems, unfortunately, that international authority is so far not likely to be belligerent, although on the alert. Many thousands of people today not only believe in space ships but, more importantly, are developing an awareness of the part we ought to play in meeting them adequately. In what is called the coming New Age it surely behoves all who believe in man's enlightenment through self-knowledge and progress towards spiritual realisation to be prepared in this way now. If as many as possible are equipped to meet planetary man knowingly but humbly and in the attitude of love and service - bridging the gap, as it were - then the risk of such momentous folly as an interplanetary war could be avoided.

To reach some kind of meaningful association we need to have a much clearer and deeper knowledge of ourselves, our desires and motivations, especially those belonging to our lower nature. "Man, know thyself", is a Delphic injunction. We are moving away from religion as an organised institution which, up till now, has asked little more than belief and faith from its followers. Many of us are now urgently seeking other answers for our why and how of living. We are searching for a meaning and in this quest mankind is really seeking his origins and destiny. Throughout history there has been a need to believe in a creation and a creator.

Inevitably it seems we now have to turn towards a cosmic approach and to the concept of man's inborn spiritual link with his creator. To get to know this as a reality and to become aware in some way that we are in truth part of a cosmic plan and brotherhood is a wonderful experience. It may come as an illumination or the inspiration of a moment of time, or gradually experienced as a deepening peace of mind and sense of purpose, making life both vivid and worthwhile.

Psychology has much to teach us about our body-brain-mind mechanism and how to understand this wonderful apparatus and to control it by the will, thus giving us the tools which we can use in everyday life in applying our realisation of brotherhood. Man's spiritual being is linked with his unconscious mind at its higher levels, a form of energy that not so many of us realise we possess. And yet if we can learn how to contact it a new and ever-unfolding world can present itself. Jung has used the term the "collective unconscious", meaning, it seems, that a structure of thought energy belongs to all mankind and is ready to be tapped if only we know how. "The stuff of the universe is mind stuff" said Eddington, the great physicist. This is an aspect of cosmic consciousness that has been growing not only as a mystical concept - one of age-long belief - but one which has today come to have a different reality in terms of peoples from other parts of the creation with whom we could communicate. Unless we prepare ourselves now we may fail to meet a challenge and an opportunity which may take aeons of time to recur on this planet for we may sadly have to go down into the cauldron of our earliest evolution and begin all over again. Yes, the study of personal and spiritual synthesis is, in terms of today, more than ever an essential part of our evolutionary progress if we are to meet the immense possibilities in the years between now and the end of the present millenium.

watched two objects, one red the other a metallic colour, take off from ground level and ascend spinning into the sky. Police investigated reports from Blackdown Surrey where a U.F.O. followed by a thick cloud was seen creeping along the road at ground level by motorists in the area. The object gave out an intermittent whistling sound.

The final report for October was on 31st. when Mr. Herbert Elliott and Mr. Victor Locke saw strange saucer like objects spinning into the clouds near a rubbish tip at Yarmouth. Mr. Elliott said: "They were nothing like jet aircraft, helicopters or balloons, there were two objects travelling north and descending rapidly then they went up fast and suddenly there were three of them".

As you will probably realise this is not the complete picture of U.F.O activity in the U.K. at this time. We have many other reports which are still being investigated and November could be even more startling than October. If any spectacular events occur we will compile them into a newsletter for release at a later date.

Research & Evaluation Headquarters.

At the recent Northern Convention at Ilkley, a very good idea of a communications network was suggested.

The present form of information is for sightings to be forwarded to our central collecting area. This is a good idea, but as it was pointed out, has its failings.

Not all sighting data can be published in Awareness, so consequently, not all sightings circulate among members. The new form of communications would go something like this:

A sighting in a town with all details would be sent to the local group. Two copies would be made out, one sent to the central collecting station, the other sent to a known contact in the next nearest town, who would pass on the report to another known contact and so on.

If our members are interested in this, I would like to receive details as below from as many towns and villages and eventually, of course, ALL towns and villages.

NAME. ADDRESS. TELEPHONE NUMBER (DAY AND NIGHT)

A typewriter and/or duplicator would be perfect. Each would handle the report once and the only cost, a fourpenny stamp, would be incurred, this way each would build up his own dossier of sightings and links in the straight line theory of U.F.O could be very easily checked out.

This is only the beginning, many of our members are radio hams, with this in mind a very fast relay service can develop indeed and instantly from different positions and so more accurately to watch and follow the U.F.O.

For the moment though, let us establish our stations, I will, when all the information is received map out a plan. If two applications are received from the same town or village, the one with the most facilities will be chosen.

THIS CAN ONLY WORK WITH YOUR HELP. Lets have those applications with a Stamped Addressed Envelope please to save expenses, to:

The most scientific approach and handling is essential if facts have to be established to stand up to any scrutiny and once and for all remove from peoples minds the thought that they will be taken for cranks if they speak up when they see a UFO.

This will then make the task of tracking much easier by the greater numbers of people coming forward immediately.

AN OPEN MINDED APPROACH TO 'CONTACT'

By Jeffery Eanes.

If the question "Do you believe in U.F.O's" were posed to the entire British adult population, then it would be my contention that a certain percentage would say NO, some would say YES and others would require material proof before they would commit themselves one way or the other.

If "Contact" was religion, then I would categorise myself as an agnostic. The fact that I have become a member is surely significant in itself, but at this stage, I approach the whole thing with a completely open-mind. With my present outlook toward this subject, joining the movement has been a logical step.

Just briefly, to qualify my previous sentence, I must go back to late 1960, when I was serving on a destroyer in the British Far East Fleet. One particularly dark night when we were cruising from Singapore to Hong Kong (not in company with other ships), I took over the Middle watch, 2359 to 0400 hrs. The rating whom I relieved, reported amongst other things on the watch hand-over, that strange lights become visible regularly at 15 minute intervals, and travelled from Port to Starboard, passing directly over the Ship. I did in fact see these lights myself, just as my shipmate had said, but did not attach too much importance to them because: (A) Electrical storms were very common in this particular area of the South China Sea. (B) At night, a Destroyer's masthead light had often been confused as that of an aircraft. (C) Radar showed negative contacts within twenty miles. (The possibility that an object moving at a great speed may not necessarily be picked up by radar had not then occurred to me.)

Similar incidents occurred some eight or nine months later, near the Inland Sea of Japan and Okinawa respectively.... However, one element that could not be disregarded was the fact that an aircraft carrier we were escorting was carrying out round the clock flying operations.

These incidents, coupled with my own belief that it would be ridiculous for us here on Earth to think that we are so exquisite, that it should be us only who occupy a minute place in Eternity, have prompted me to become a member of "Contact". Not because I am an ardent believer, but because I know that Contact's theories are completely feasible, and anything that is feasible is worth full investigation.
